Team seeks input

As in other cities and counties, the Appomattox Multidiscipline team continues to have as one of its goals coordinating programs within the county to help prevent, identify, and treat child abuse and neglect.

The MDT, in its two years of existence, has with the cooperation of many citizens developed various public-awareness and educational programs. Among these are a related art contest in two schools, a display table at the Railroad Festival, news articles, and workshops dealing with low-income family budgets, sexual abuse, school phobia, learning disabilities, and hyperactive children vs. food additives. Also, chapters of the Volunteer Program and Parents Anonymous have been formed.

Interested individuals or groups may help by suggesting additional programs for our county or by helping develop these programs. Please contact any member.

The Social Services Department in Appomattox remains responsible for receiving child abuse and neglect complaints, investigating these complaints, and assessing a plan of prevention or treatment. If you suspect a child abuse or neglect, contact the Appomattox Department of Social Services, Child Protection Social Worker, Miss Susan Wright, at 352-7125.
